

What nobler aim can man attain
Than conquest over human pain"
"Shakespeare"

Pain Killer.

PAIN KILLER,

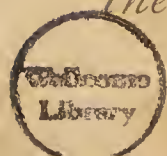

first sold in 1840, has proved itself of more general usefulness than any other medicinal preparation.

It is just the thing needed so many times in the home, when travelling, and when hunting or fishing.

Keep it handy for use in case of accidents or sudden illness.

Use it once.

It makes friends and retains them.

Pain-Killer was a gallant Knight
By brigands fierce beset,
Quoth lusty leader, " By our might,
But here's a foe well met ;
If you'd your fame retain, you must
My goodly fellows best
In whatsoever mode of thrust
Their pleasure may suggest."

TO MOTHERS:

Pain Killer cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Cholera Morbus, and other children's ailments.

Keep it in the house and you will soon learn its worth.

Read the directions carefully and you can save your little ones much suffering.

PAIN KILLER

cures Burns, Bruises, Scalds, Insect Bites, &c., &c.

Get a bottle to-day.

Then up spake Señor Croup, a churl
Bedecked with children's scalps,
"Upon my javelin's point I'll hurl
This bumpkin high as Alps."
Pain-Killer set his lance, they met
With mingled crash and whoop,
And straightway in the dust was set
The corpse of Señor Croup.

Rheumatism,

Neuralgia,

Sciatica,

Lumbago, &c.,

are always relieved at once by, and a cure will follow the faithful use of,

PAIN KILLER.

Bathe the parts affected with Pain Killer, and wrap with a woollen cloth saturated with same.

An ordinary dose internally will do good.

Try this treatment.

“Now, by our halidome!” quoth one,
Don Rheumatism by name,
“By battle-axe thou’lt be undone
Thro’ this good weapon’s fame!”
“Quick to the test”, Pain-Killer said,
The steeds were urged anew,
And lo! Don Rheumatism’s head
Was cloven quite in two.

IN many districts where Fever and Ague prevails, the efficacy of

PAIN KILLER

is well known.

*If you suffer from this complaint,
get a bottle of Pain Killer right off.*

*Read the directions carefully;
follow them, and you will find it
will cure most obstinate cases.*

*It has done so thousands of times
since 1840.*

Then came Count Feveranague forth
All tremulous with rage,
He looked him South, he looked him North
And said, "I give thee gage
Of battle; draw thy vaunted sword!"
Pain-Killer grasped his blade,
And soon, as with an auger bored,
His foe before him laid.

“Are we all slaves ? ” another spake
In spiral sort of purr,
“ At hip and toss I’ll make thee quake,
I’m Gen’ral Colic, Sir ! ”
“ You’ll never get the inside hold
On me ”, Pain-Killer said,
And giving him a grape-vine fold
He tossed him heels o’er head.

No other medicine on earth is so efficacious as

PAIN KILLER

in cases of Colic, Cramps and all Summer Complaints.

These complaints come suddenly and require prompt attention.

*If the case is unusually severe,
bathe the bowels freely with Pain
Killer, after taking internally a teaspoonful in sweetened hot water or milk.*

Keep Pain Killer handy at all times.

Then Lord Lumbago, hung with packs
Of reeking alabaster—
Or cuticle—pared off of backs
By Señor Porousplaster,
Put up his hands for fistic test,
Out struck Sir Knight Pain-Killer,
And Lord Lumbago sank to rest
Like some crushed caterpillar.

THE warming, soothing effect of
PAIN KILLER

is continued long after its application. It will always give relief in cases of Lumbago, Rheumatism and kindred disorders, and will cure most cases, if used faithfully according to directions.

Try it !

It may "just hit" your case, as it has thousands of others.

Now came the rabble, swordsmen Gout,
Neuralgia and Catarrh,
"Have at thee!" was their lusty shout,
"Thy corpse with wounds we'll scar!
With stab and lunge they could not foil
Pain-Killer thrust them thro',
Then standing on the blood-red soil
He turned their leader to—
